Brewer's Corner

As a fellow brewer, it brings me immense joy to share with you the incredible success story of our Indian brewers and the diverse range of beers offered in the PEEPAI brewery, Bangalore.

To give you an insight amongst the beer they brew, my choice would be "Seasonal Beers". The reason being that, seasonal brewing is an art form, a symphony of flavors orchestrated by the changing seasons. Each batch they craft is a celebration of nature's bounty, inspired by the freshest ingredients available during that time of year. Whether it's the crispness of a spring ale infused with floral hops, the warmth of a winter stout rich with roasted malts, or the zest of a summer IPA bursting with citrusy notes, their seasonal beers are a reflection of the vibrant tapestry of flavors nature has to offer.

Peepai Brewery features state-of-the-art equipment meticulously designed by PRODEBBREWERY, to ensure consistency and excellence in every batch they brew. From the custom-built brewing kettles to the temperature-controlled fermentation tanks, they spare no expense in crafting the perfect brew.

Flavors of Beer

Raspberry wheat ale

Raspberry wheat ale beer is a delightful fusion of traditional wheat beer with the sweet and tart flavors of raspberries. The color ranges from pale yellow to pinkish-red, influenced by the amount of raspberry used. The clarity will be often hazy due to the wheat and fruit additions. Raspberry wheat ale has a strong aroma dominated by fresh raspberries. Subtle malt sweetness and possibly mild esters from the yeast. The flavor of Raspberry is Prominent, providing tartness and sweetness, Wheat Adds a bready, slightly sweet base and Low to moderate bitterness from the hops. The alcohol content is around 4.0% to 5.5% ABV (Alcohol by Volume), though it can vary depending on the specific recipe. Raspberry wheat ales are known for their balance of fruitiness and wheat character, making them a popular choice, especially during warmer months. Raspberry wheat ale is a refreshing and flavourful beer perfect for summer days or whenever you're in the mood for something fruity and light.

Scotch Ale

Scotch Ale, also known as "Wee Heavy," is a traditional Scottish beer style known for its rich, malty profile and higher alcohol content. Usually, it's in Deep amber to dark brown colour, scotch ale is Generally clear, with a substantial, creamy off-white to tan head. It gives Prominent caramel, toffee, and roasted malt notes aromas, Some versions may have a slight smokiness due to peat-smoked malt, though this is not a dominant characteristic in most traditional examples. Alcohol content typically ranges from 6.5% to 10% ABV, though some versions may be slightly lower or higher. It's a classic example with rich malt flavors and a smooth finish. Scotch Ale is a wonderful style for those who appreciate rich, malt-forward beers with complex flavors and a warming finish, perfect for sipping on cool evenings or pairing with robust foods.

Pineapple Ale

Pineapple ale is a refreshing and fruity beer style that incorporates the tropical flavors of pineapple, often resulting in a slightly tart and sweet profile. Clarity ranges from clear to slightly hazy, depending on the brewing process and the use of fresh fruit. Pineapple ale is Pale yellow to golden in color appearances. It has a Dominant pineapple aroma with hints of other tropical fruits and light malt sweetness in the background. The sweetness and acidity of the pineapple balance well with the malt and hops. Typically alcohol content is around 4.0% to 6.0% ABV, making it a refreshing and seasonable beer. Pineapple ale is a versatile and refreshing beer perfect for warm weather or whenever you're in the mood for a tropical twist on a classic ale.

Trippel

Trippel beers have a rich history rooted in Belgian brewing tradition. Trippel beers offer a captivating drinking experience characterized by their complexity, depth of flavor, and ability to age gracefully over time. They often have a complex flavor profile, featuring fruity esters (often reminiscent of bananas, pears, or apples), spicy phenols (such as clove or pepper), and a moderate to high level of hop bitterness. Tripels are usually highly carbonated, providing a lively mouth feel and enhancing their drinkability despite their strength. They are best enjoyed in a chalice or tulip glass to fully appreciate their aroma and complex flavours.

German Hefeweizen

German Hefeweizen, also known simply as Hefeweizen, is a traditional wheat beer style that originated in Bavaria, Germany. It's renowned for its unique flavors and distinctive appearance. Hefeweizen is primarily brewed with a significant proportion of wheat malt. Hefeweizen is traditionally unfiltered, resulting in a cloudy or hazy appearance. German Hefeweizen is celebrated for its unique yeast character, cloudy appearance, and refreshing taste, making it a beloved style among beer enthusiasts worldwide. German Hefeweizen is a beloved style among beer enthusiasts for its unique flavors, refreshing nature, and cultural significance in Bavarian beer culture. It's a versatile beer that pairs well with a variety of foods, making it a popular choice for both casual and formal occasions.

German Pilsner

German Pilsner, also known as "Pils" or "Pilsner," is a style of pale lager that originated in Germany. It's one of the most popular beer styles in the world and is known for its crisp, clean taste and refreshing character. German Pilsners are pale golden-yellow in color, often with brilliant clarity. They typically have a dense, frothy white head. Overall, German Pilsners are known for their clean, crisp taste and high drinkability. They are a popular choice for warm weather or as a session beer due to their refreshing nature. German Pilsners are beloved for their impeccable balance, refreshing character, and timeless appeal.
